THIS LIST IS PERSONAL AND NON-TRANSFERABLE

Dedication

It is to a fine spirit of courtesy and generosity on the part of their owners that we owe this wonderful privilege of dedicating to you the delights of these beautiful gardens. We cannot too strongly urge you to read carefully and to observe conscientiously all the conditions of visit requested by these hospitable owners. Failure in this observance may cause the gates to close, and we may lose forever this little key which opens to us so much of pleasureable delight. Realize too that every garden owner wishes her garden treated as you treat your own—loving its beauty and perfections and pardoning its short-comings and disappointments.

MRS. OAKLEIGH THORNE, Chairman
MRS. J. WILLIS MARTIN,
MRS. FRANCIS KING,
MRS. RANDALL MORGAN.

Conditions of Visit

Every owner listing a garden has been asked to state her wishes as to days and hours of visit and any other conditions necessary to secure her own convenience.

SPECIAL RESTRICTIONS

These restrictions will be found clearly stated under the various gardens; when no days, hours or restrictions are mentioned it is taken for granted that the garden may be visited at the convenience of the visitor.

GENERAL RESTRICTIONS

Children and head gardeners may not accompany members on garden visits.

Cameras and dogs are also excluded from all gardens visited.

PRIVILEGE ACCORDED NON-MEMBERS

A member visiting a garden may be accompanied by FOUR non-members.

THE RECALL OF A VISITOR'S CARD

A Visitor's Card and List may be recalled upon complaint by a hostess to the President of her own Club. This President shall then request the President of the Club to which the offending member belongs to ask the return of her Visitor's Card and List.

The second President shall also advise the Chairman of the Visiting Gardens Committee of the circumstances of the case.

Type—City garden.
Best bloom—April to 3rd week in June.
Specialties—Tulips and iris.
Visiting days—any time; telephone Mt. Vernon 4046-J.
Owner's Remarks—This is a small City garden, elevated 15ft. above the street level and surrounded by a brick wall. I am not at home after the 3rd week in June and in the fall no town garden is very attractive after passing through the heat and dirt of a City's summer. D. L. Murdoch

MRS. JOHN RIDGELY, Hampton, Towson P. O., Md.

Location—2 miles from Towson, Md., 1 mile in from former Dulany Valley Pike.

Type—Terraced; box borders and perennial beds.

Best bloom—Middle of June and September, before heavy frosts.

Specialty—Laid out more than 100 years ago.

Visiting days—Any afternoon.

Owner's request—Would like to be notified of intended visit by individuals or clubs. During war times and shortage of labor, the gardens have suffered, but the scale on which they were laid out shows from the terrace ending the lawn back of the house, and strangers admire the trees.

MRS. ELLICOTT H. WORTHINGTON, Baltimore, Md.

Location—1531 Bolton Street.

Type—City back yard.

Best Bloom—June.

Visiting days—Any time.

Owner's remarks—Block of city gardens without division fences. This garden is only interesting from the point of view of the treatment of a block of city yards made into gardens.

HISTORIC PARK IN BALTIMORE, Md., "Mt. Clare", Carroll Park

Owner's remarks—Too small and common-place to be visited.

MRS. JOHN SHERWIN, Willoughby, O.
Location—South Farm, Waite Hill.
Type—Informal, country. Fine view.
Best Bloom—May.
Specialties—Tuilps, peonies, gladioli, annuals.
Visiting days—Any time.
Owner's remarks—Please ask for Mrs. Sherwin or the gardener, A. J. Holliday.

MRS. S. LEWIS SMITH, Gates Mills, O.
Location—River Road, going towards Chagrin Falls.
Type—Small old fashioned.
Best Bloom—June.

MRS. F. R. WALKER, Gates Mills, O.
Location—Mayfield Road.
Type—Cottage Garden.
Best Bloom—June and July.
Visiting days—Any time.

MRS. ROLLIN WHITE, Cleveland, O.
Location—North Park Blvd. and Lee Road.
Type—Green Garden.
Best Bloom—July-August for flowers.
Owner's Remarks—Also member of Shaker Lakes Garden Club.

MRS. H. E. BELLAMY, Forest Lynne, Evergreen P. O., Colo.

MRS. E. S. AVERY, Easthampton, L. I.
Location—Lily Pond Lane.
Type—Informal
Best Bloom—Early July.
Specialty—Iris.
Visiting days and hours—Any time.
Owner's remarks—I should appreciate a 'phone call before a call but it is not obligatory. Not a "show" garden—just a simple "home" garden—around which the house is built.

MRS. RUGER DONOHO, Easthampton, L. I.
Location—Egypt Lane.
Type—Perennials and shrubs, informal.
Best Bloom—June, August and September.
Visiting days and hours—All times.

Type—Perennial.
Best Bloom—June.
Specialty—Larkspur.
Visiting days—At any time.

THE EASTHAMPTOM IRIS GARDEN belonging to Mr. Stephen Cummins and situated in Huntting Lane has always been open to the public, but as the place is sometimes rented a visitor can easily enquire in the Village for information as to whether or not the tenant permits visits. The Iris and Mallows are finest in July but the garden is lovely with purple loose strife and cleomes in August. Situation and setting are always interesting and the imagination is appealed to at once by that happy combination of art a nature which one finds so interwoven in this picturesque I garden.

MRS. FRANK H. ARMSTRONG, Evanston, Ill.
Location—1030 Ridge Avenue.
Type—Informal.
Best Bloom—Spring or Fall.
Specialties—Lillies and bulbs.
Visiting days or hours—Any time.

MRS. CLAY BAIRD, Evanston, Ill.

MRS. CHARLES LINCOLN BARTLETT, Evanston, Ill.
Location—1415 Judson Avenue.
Type—Informal.
Best Bloom—20th of May to July 15th.
Specialties—Many perennials, some annuals and bulbs.
Visiting days and hours—Wednesday afternoons 4 to 6 o'clock.
Owner's request—Wish guests to enter and leave garden from the street rather than by paved alley in rear, simply because the garden as a whole is more attractive that way. It is a "back yard", 50 by 145 feet, and has been a keen pleasure for about 22 years. Is usually full of bloom from last of April to mid October. I have never had a professional gardener. Just now and then day's work by man who will take orders and work under instruction on my plan.

MRS. D. H. BURNHAM, Evanston, Ill.
Location—232 Dempster Street, between Forest Avenue and Lake Michigan.
Type—Natural Forest. Terrace on Lake. Flowers and vegetables.

Specialty—Darwin tulips.
Visiting days or hours—Any day or hour.

MRS. WILLIAM C. EVANS, Evanston, Ill.
Location—230 Main Street.
Type—Small wild garden.
Best Bloom—Spring or Fall.
Specialty—Iris. Various native wild flowers.
Visiting days or hours—At one's pleasure.

MRS. ALFRED H. GROSS, Evanston, Ill. (see also York Village, Maine.)
Location—1100 Ridge Boulevard, corner of Greenleaf Street.
Type—Small city garden—An attempt to furnish a green, shady retreat on the corner of two very busy streets.
Visiting days and hours—Any time.
Owner's remarks—The tiny flower garden in the rear is for cutting flowers only. The only original thing I can claim for our garden is the attempt to suppress the necessary garage and to make a place where one can forget the rush of city life. Visitors very welcome.

MRS. JOHN R. GUILLIAMS, Evanston, Ill.
Location—2423 Harrison Street, Corner McDaniel Avenue.
Type—Informal.
Best Bloom—Spring, early summer.

Type—Formal, boxwood walks.
Best Bloom—April and May.
Specialty—Old Spring bulbs.
Visiting days and hours—Every day.
Remarks—by Mrs. Wheelright, Pres. James River Garden Club. "One never really forgets the first impression of "Shirley"—the home of the Carters for more than 200 years. After being in its atmosphere a better understanding of all things American—ideals and traditions are better understood. No place, unless it be Mount Vernon, is more fraught with poetry, romance and the perfume of the past.

The house of exceptional type, originally with wings, has beautiful carved wood panelling, doorways and cornices; rare and interesting portraits—one by Peale of George Washington.

MRS. H. G. BUCHANAN, Vinita, Va.

Location—Chesterfield County, Va., between Richmond and Petersburg.

Type—English Parterre, enclosed with holly hedge.

Best Bloom—Spring.

Specialty—Old log house.

Visiting days—Any time.

Owner's remarks—The owner would prefer being at home.

MRS. HENRY T. WICKHAM, care of C. & O. R. R. Offices, Richmond, Va.

Location—"Hickory Hill", Hanover County, near Ashland.

Type—Early Colonial.

Best Bloom—When the Roses are in bloom.

Specialty—Box tree walk.

Remarks by an interesting landscape architect state that "Hickory Hill" is a splendid example of the extensive plans of early landscape work in America—the central axis being laid off on a two mile distance; the place should probably be viewed with this in mind. The present garden affords an interesting visit, as the fine old evergreen planting and boxwood are beautiful.

BATTLE ABBEY, Confederate Memorial, Public Park, Richmond, Va.

Location—South Boulevard.

VALENTINE MUSEUM, Richmond, Va.

Location—11th and Clay Streets.

Type—Walled in City garden, early 19th Century (1812).

Specialties—House and garden; century old Magnolia tree, planted in 1807.

Visiting days and hours—From 9 to 5 every day, free.

Remarks—The house was built in 1812 for John Wickham, Esq.; Benjamin Mills, Architect. The walls very thick, are brick stuccoed; doors solid mahogany, with silver plated locks, knobs and hinges; and floors heart pine. The rooms contain excellent specimens of Florentine mantles. At the rear of the mansion a charming pillared portico looks upon a charming old garden, surrounded by a high, ivy-covered brick wall. "A fountain makes refreshing music in the midst of the garden, and through a rosegarland arch we have glimpses, as the vine clad trellises and shrubbery will permit, of figures in white marble of the Goddesses of Beauty, Flowers and The Harvest peeping out among the green. Every olden time flower is to be found in the trim parterres divided by narrow brick walks, and many goodly fruit trees and grape vines on trellises and latticed arbors vie with the flowers in making the garden a place of delight. In one corner a century-old magnolia tree makes June fragrant".

GRASS LAKE LOTUS BEDS, Lake County, Ill.

The largest bed of American Lotus (Nelumbo lutea) known. The flowers are at their best from July 20th to August 20th, depending upon the season; they vary from year to year, being especially fine about every third year.

The beds are about 30 miles from Chicago and may be reached by motor over fairly good roads, or by the C. M. & St. P. R. R. to Antioch, Ill., which is about 5 miles from Grass Lake and where motors will be found at the station.

The best method of seeing the beds, which cover several acres, is by launch, and the best launch is one holding about forty people and owned by Ray Preganzer. This makes frequent trips by a path cut through the beds and from it the flowers may be seen in their perfection. Inquiries should be made as to the exact location of the pier from which this launch starts. Grass Lake has become a tourists resort during recent years and the beds are in danger of destruction.

Type—A wild flower preserve.

Best Bloom—Spring.

Specialty—Not developed enough yet to be able to say.

Visiting days and hours—A caretaker will be there all through the day.

Remarks—This is a very new undertaking, in fact only the fundamental, preliminary work has been done. It is being developed in the City Park System by the City of Cleveland Park Department. Most of the work so far has been under the direction of the City Forester. The two Garden Clubs are using all their influence to interest Cleveland people and to make this in time a beautiful spot and one where all the Native Flora may be studied by everyone who is interested. It is a memorial garden to the Shakers, whose mill stood on this spot fifty years and whose farms surrounded this garden.

THE SHAKESPEARE GARDEN, Cleveland, O.

Location—Upper East Blvd., between Sperior and St. Clair Streets.

Specialty—The flowers mentioned in Shakespeare's works.

Visiting days and hours—All days and all hours.

Remarks—The garden was largely the idea of Mr. Leo. Weidenthal, a Cleveland editor. In it are planted many trees by famous dramatists, poets and actors, as Julia Marlowe, E. A. Sothern, Beerbohm Tree, Otis Skinner. Mantell gave a lovely sundial. There are roses from Juliette's grave and a mulberry tree from the historic inn, "At the Sign of the Mulberry"; Yeates, the Irish Dramatist, also planted a tree. It is very interesting—well worth a visit.

Visiting days and hours—Any time—present card at house.
Owner's Requests—Watch one's step, as many things are planted in unexpected places; no picking, as owner saves for seed. Garden may not be in order, as laborers (save owner) are few, but all with the understanding eyes and heart are all welcome.

MR. WALTER S. McINNES (non-member) (See South West Harbor, Maine).

MRS. W. W. MONTGOMERY, Jr., Radnor, Pa.
Location—Hare's Lane.
Type—Informal—borders, shrubs, trees, wild flowers.
Best Bloom—May-June.
Visiting days and hours—Any day, any hour.
Owner's remarks—The place I live in is one we rent, so the garden is informal and temporary, except for trees, shrubs and wild flowers, but it is in lovely country, and possibly some members, who like myself enjoy doing their own gardening, or members from other states whose country is so different, may care to come.

Anyone who thinks it worth a visit will be most welcome, and if they will telephone Wayne 579, I shall be glad to see them.

The dogwood, lilies and sweet rocket, wild in the woods, make the place very lovely after the middle of May and our outlook is good.

GARDEN CLUB OF WILMINGTON, DELAWARE

The members of the Garden Club of Wilmington, Delaware, suggest that guests apply to either the President or Corresponding Secretary of their organization—who will gladly give the necessary information—regarding the best gardens to be visited. We are always desirous of extending the greatest possible hospitality to our fellow Garden Clubs, and are more than pleased to show the best we may have at the time, but feel that as gardens change so greatly from season to season and year to year much time may thus be saved the passing visitor.

We call attention to the beauty of the Park Drive in Wilmington—following the course of the Brandywine Creek for a distance of about two miles; and also to the unusual trees in the Wilmington and Brandywine Cemetery—abutting on the same Park Drive. One of these trees is a Cedar of Lebanon—believed to be the second finest in the United States.

Type—Small, formal.
Best Bloom—March, April, May.
Specialty—A rose garden and iris beds for color; Japanese wistaria on pergolas.
Visiting days—Mornings, except Saturday and Sunday.
Owner's remarks—As garden is small, I prefer small groups of visitors. I could easily procure admission for visitors to several much larger and finer gardens than mine, belonging to members of the Garden Club of Alameda County (not yet old enough to apply for membership in The G. C. of A.), of which I am President.

MRS. W. H. POOL, Member of Warrenton Garden Club (Virginia).
Location—"Belle Terre", Menlo Park, Cal.

The "Martelaers Rock Association" has been given charge of "Constitution Island" by the West Point Authorities. This Island of 300 acres lies in the Hudson River, opposite West Point. It can be reached by Government boat on alternate Saturdays during the summer,—or by row boat by calling "Cold Spring, 26" at other times. General Washington selected this situation for fortification as the greatest strategic position on the River, against the British, and here a chain was placed across the River. The Island possessed two forts and numerous redoubts now in ruins. From 1825 to 1915, the Island was the home of the Warner family. Miss Warner possessed an old-fashioned garden, and wrote a book upon gardening more than fifty years ago. In 1908, Mrs. Russel Sage bought the Island, (for $150,000) and presented it to the United States Government in the names of Miss Warner and her own. In 1916, through efforts of nearby Hudson River residents, the Island was placed in the charge of the "Martelaers Rock Association", which was formed for the purpose of perpetuating its memories.

The Palisades Interstate Park came into existence in 1900. Today it contains 37,000 acres which include, as the most important features, fourteen miles of the Palisades in New Jersey,—rock rising 350 to 500 feet,—and 36,000 acres in the Highlands of the Hudson, chiefly in ORANGE COUNTY. This latter section affords docks on the Hudson River, extensive play-grounds, and 25 miles of excellent roads through this wild, mountainous country with scenic effects aided by twelve lakes largely utilized by campers in summer. Trails for those on foot may be found to the extent of 30 miles. In certain sections, in time of blossom, rhododendron and laurel are effective in their profusion. The "Bear Mountain Inn" commands an unsurpassed Hudson River view. The Park may be reached by excellent State and Park roads from the south and west, and in the summer of 1922, from the north by the "Storm King road" which, as a shelf in the mountains, passes Storm King and Cro' Nest, with the Hudson River below in the view.

Garden at Cuernavara, called Borda Garden.

THE ARNOLD ARBORETUM, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

"The Arboretum is a Department of Harvard University and is a museum of trees and other woody plants. The Arboretum endeavors to increase the knowledge of trees by arranging the living plants in what may be described as a Tree Museum. This Museum, which now contains one of the largest collections of trees and shrubs of the Northern Hemisphere in the world, occupies 220 acres of hill, valley and meadow contributed for the purpose by the University and in small part by the City of Boston. Part of this land is occupied by good native Oak woods and a fine grove of Hemlock trees which cover the steep slopes of what is called Hemlock Hill, the crowning feature of the Arboretum. On the remainder of the ground the trees have been arranged in family groups and in botanical sequence, all the species of each genus being together. In the case of important native trees several individuals have been planted comparatively near together with a single individual of the species sufficiently far from any other trees to make possible its free and full development. For the trees of other countries only space has been found for a single individual of each. Hardy shrubs are arranged in parallel beds on the only piece of level ground in the Arboretum near the Forest Hills entrance. This arrangement has been adopted that students who want to see and compare the species of a genus of hardy shrubs can do so easily and in a short time. Everywhere else in the Arboretum the attempt has been made to so group the trees and shrubs that the natural features of the place may be preserved, and that, although a person going along the drives can see close to the road a representative of every genus of trees in the Arboretum, he can do so without being unpleasantly impressed with the idea that he is in a systematically arranged botanical garden. A visitor, however, who sees only what can be seen from the drives gets little idea of this museum and its collections, which must be studied from the grass-covered paths which lead the student to all the groups and to the principal points of interest and beauty.

More important for the increase of knowledge than the cultivation and convenient arrangement of living plants is the work which is carried on in the laboratories of the Arboretum, for comparatively few persons can study and enjoy these growing plants; but from the laboratories material and information reach far beyond the boundaries of the United States. There are two departments of these laboratories, first the nurseries and second the herbarium and library. In the nurseries have been raised nearly all the trees and shrubs which now form the outdoor museum, and from them hundreds of thousands of rare plants, or plants entirely new to cultivation, have been sent out in exchange for other plants, to be tested in almost every civilized country of the world. In the library and herbarium the material gathered by the agents of the Arboretum is studied, and in its library have been prepared the books through which the information about trees collected by the Arboretum has reached the public. The library, commenced in 1873, now contains 31,000 bound volumes and 8,000 pamplets, and on its shelves are to be found all the principal books in all languages relating in any way to trees, their uses and cultivation. The herbarium, the foundation of which was laid by the agents of the United States Census of 1880, has grown and is growing steadily. It is rich in the ligneuos plants of North America, and of China and Japan. Those from other countries are fairly well represented, and it is the purpose of those who now administer the Arboretum that this herbarium shall eventually provide material for the critical studies, begun in North America and continued in Japan and China, of the trees of other countries." Quotations from an article by Prof. C. S. Sargent, in the Garden Magazine, Nov., 1917.

"The Arboretum is particularly interesting in September and October from the large quantity of handsome and interesting fruits which grow here in profusion and from the autumn coloring of the foliage. Probably there is no place in the world where such a variety of autumn foliage can be seen in a small area, and the autumn foliage season is prolonged here by the large number of Chinese and Japanese plants which as a general rule assume autumn colors three or four weeks later than the Allied American trees and shrubs. As a rule Europeans who know the Arboretum are more interested in it in the autumn than they are in the spring, for they are not able to see in Europe such an abundance of brilliant fruits or such masses of autumn foliage." Bulletin of Garden Club.

Members of Garden Clubs, except those living within fifty miles of Boston, wishing to visit the Arnold Arboretum, can obtain authority to do so by motor car by applying in writing to the Director, Prof. Charles S. Sargent, Jamaica Plain, Mass., stating the time of their proposed visit and giving the name of their club.

THE MISSOURI BOTANICAL GARDEN, ST. LOUIS MO.

Location—Flora Boulevard and Tower Grove Avenue.

This Garden is open to the public, without charge, every day in the year with the exception of New Year's, Fourth of July, Labor Day and Christmas; week-days from 8:00 A.M. until one-half hour after sunset; Sundays from 2:00 P.M. until sunset.

Botanical Garden, St. Louis, Mo.

About 11,000 species of plants are growing in the Garden, the hardy forms, numbering about 5,000 are distributed in the various outdoor collections. The remaining species, approximating 6,000 in number, obtained from all parts of the world, are mostly tropical and subtropical forms and are displayed in the various conservatories. Outdoor features of special interest are the water gardens, rose garden, perennial garden, formal or Italian garden, the knolls, the economic garden, the North American tract, the arboretum, the rock and wild flower gardens, and the test garden; in the latter new varieties of plants are tried out each year in order to prove their general adaptability to the climate of St. Louis. The principal collections housed in the conservatories are the palms, economics, cycads, succulents, ferns, aroids, tropical fruits, bromeliads, orchids, ericaceous and coniferous plants.

Additional features of the Garden are a library of over 87,000 volumes devoted to botany and allied subjects; a herbarium of about 862,000 specimens; research laboratories and experimental greenhouses where graduate work in botany, plant pathology, and plant physiology are carried on; a school for gardening; a monthly bulletin of popular information on subjects of general interest; a scientific quarterly devoted to the publication of the results of the researches of the staff and graduate students. The affairs of the Garden are administered by a Board of Trustees, originally designated by the will of Henry Shaw, the founder of the Garden, the immediate direction of the Garden being vested in a Director, appointed by the Board of Trustees. The Garden is supported entirely by funds left by its founder and receives no income from the city or state. Guides will be provided for members of the Garden Club, if requested. Address: George T. Moore, Director, Missouri

PUBLIC BOTANICAL GARDENS

THE NEW YORK BOTANICAL GARDEN, New York City.

Location—Bronx Park.

This garden is open at all times without charge, is located on about four hundred acres of land, about one-fourth of it a natural forest reserve, with some four miles of driveways and fifteen miles of paths and trails. Plantations include herbaceous gardens, fruticetum and arboretum, mixed flower gardens, school gardens and horticultural gardens, with large areas devoted to roses, dahlias, cannas, tulips, gladioli, peonies, ferns, conifers and irises. There are two very large public greenhouses containing collections of tropical and subtropical plants, those of cactuses, palms, cycads, orchids, bromeliads, ferns and agaves being very extensive. Altogether nearly 15,000 species and varieties of plants may be seen. A range of small greenhouses provides facilities for study and teaching. The museum building contains collections illustrating economic, systematic and fossil botany, an herbarium of over one million specimens, a library of over 30,000 volumes of the literature of botany, horticulture, agriculture and forestry and laboratories and lecture rooms for research and teaching. Information on botanical and horticultural subjects is given out widely through publications, lectures, correspondence, and by docents, and a school of gardening provides direct instruction. Docents will escort visitors to parts of the grounds and buildings without charge on any week-day at three o'clock and explain the collections, and their attention may be had at other times if pre-arranged. The institution is controlled by a board of managers chosen from a corporation established under a charter from the State of New York, and is maintained and developed partly by annual appropriations by the City of New York and partly by funds of the corporation derived mainly from the income from endowments, from gifts and from membership dues. Address; The Director-in-Chief, New York Botanical Gardens, Bronx Park, New York City.
